

Terms and Conditions – FLIM 2016

1. Scope and validity

These Terms and Conditions describe the contract between Becker & Hickl GmbH as the access provider and the attendant of the event FLIM 2016. The organizational board consists of:

- Wolfgang Becker, Becker & Hickl GmbH, Berlin, Germany
- Aleš Benda, BioCeV and Charles University, Prague
- Ondřej Šebesta, Faculty of Science, Charles University in Prague
- Oleksandr Chernyavskiy, Institute of Physiology, Czech Academy of Science
- Alžbeta Marcek Chorvatova, International Laser Center Bratislava
- Karsten Koenig, University Saarbruecken, Germany
- Angelika Rueck, University Ulm, Germany
- Klaus Suhling, King's College London
- Elena Zagaynova, Nizhnii Novgorod Medical State Academy

The contract becomes valid with the notification via email that your registration has been confirmed. Notification about your registration being processed does not represent a binding acceptance of your request by Becker & Hickl GmbH. If you wish to participate in the event and take up this contract, please purchase one of the registration items available on this site at "Registration" which are eligible for you. Please note that student registrations are only valid if you provide a student ID or other appropriate proof of your enrollment at the info point. The "speaker" registration item can only be acquired by people who have been granted a presentation slot in the program of the event by the organizational board. The "One day only" registration item grants access to only one of the days of the event.

2. Subject of the contract

Successfully purchasing one of the registration items available on this site at "Registration" entitles you to the participation in the event's program in the respective scope. In order to access the venue, please register at our info point on your arrival, providing them with identification in form of a valid legal document. You will receive a personalized conference badge with your name for identification. The attendance fee covers one lunch on each respective day of your attendance of the event. Travel and accommodation have to be organized and paid for by the attendant. The organizational board reserves the right to make changes to the agenda and program of the event in an appropriate or necessary measure.

3. Right of withdrawal and cancellation

As a registered natural person you have the right to withdraw from the contract within 14 days of your purchase. You can do so by sending a written request to (info@becker-hickl.de). After the 5th of June 2016, 7 days before the scheduled starting date of the event, no withdrawals or cancellations can be granted anymore.

4. Privacy

By agreeing to these Terms and Conditions you also agree to our privacy policy (<https://flim-prague.com/privacy>).

5. Disclaimer

The Becker & Hickl GmbH can not be held accountable for the actions of and information given by any external speaker who is not a part of Becker & Hickl, as well as the information provided by third party websites which are reachable through external links on this site.

6. Severability

If any clauses or statements of this contract should prove to be illegal or inexecutable, this shall not affect the validity of the remainder of this contract. In an argument those clauses or statements shall be substituted with ones that represent the intent of the original clause or statement in an appropriate manner.

The place of jurisdiction is Berlin.

Last changed April 27, 2016